GREATER MARION COMING TO THE FRONT.

NEW TURN PIKE A CERTAINTY

There has been more written and more said upon the subject of good roads, than upon any subject under the sun. The amount done however, stands in proportion to the amount talked as 1 to 1000.

And the talk has had a very wide range; from draining a mud hole in front of Oak Grove School house, at a cost of 15 minutes time for one man with a hoe, to building a highway from Marion to the Ohio river at a cost of $100,000.00. All the talk is, we think, destined to be the forerunner of great things for our County. There have been developments in the last week or two that are bound to awaken sleeping Crittenden and for the success of this undertaking the CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS proposes to lend its aid.

If all the merchants, lawyers, doctors and other private citizens in Marion will pull for the town and back up any improvement we will see our town grow. We have just as good advantages here as they have in Oklahoma, Texas or any other place for we are nearer the larger markets here and consequently get better prices. To our mind the main difference between here and some western country is this: while we are continually knocking and running down our country the western people are continually boosting and talking up their country. They are all natural born boosters, these western folk and it doesn't matter whether they are home grown or brought on they all have it in their system. There is something in the air or water or environment that instills it in the blood and even down to the very marrow and joints. Did you ever in all your life see a western man that wasn't whooping it up for his particular state and it did not make any difference if they had not had a drop of rain for 18 months he kept on yelling. If you pressed him too close he would tell you all you had to do was to dig a well, so deep, and you had all the water you wanted for drinking, washing stock watering and irrigation purposes.

Now in Crittenden Co., we have everything that anybody on earth wants and if we could get rid of our bad road we would be perfectly happy and contented. This summer, there will be paid out by Mining Companies here in Crittenden ten thousand dollars per month for wages besides that much more for teams and supplies.

NEW MAYOR, T. H. COCHRAN CHOSEN.

The City Council Tuesday night did itself credit in honoring Mr. Thomas Cochran, one of their number, by electing him unanimously as Mayor to succeed Mayor C. E. Weldon, who resigned on account of his business taking him away from Marion much of the time. G. C. Gray was elected to succeed Mayor elect Cochran as councilman.

LIGHTNING'S PRANK

Fears Shoe From Foot of Jewelerman at Marion Friday Afternoon.

During a thunderstorm Friday afternoon about 1 o'clock an outer building near the residence of Levi Cook, the popular jeweler of this city, was struck by lightning. At the time Mr. Cook was standing near the building with one foot resting on the doorsill. The lightning struck the top of the building, ran downward tearing the shoe from his foot severely burning his foot and demolishing his sock. Mr. Cook was knocked down and stunned. His call for help soon brought his wife and some of the neighbors who assisted him into the house and summoned a physician. Much excitement was caused in the city by the report that Levi Cook had been struck by lightning and many exaggerated stories were soon in circulation. Mr. Cook who is well known numbers his friends by his acquaintances and all were loathe to believe that anything serious had happened to him and were correspondingly delighted when it was learned that no great harm had resulted from his unusual experience.

He was out Saturday, but a little lame, from the burns, but feeling thankful for his narrow escape, which was indeed Providential.

Mrs. Carrick Dead.

Mrs. Hannah Simpson Carrick died Saturday morning April 15, at her home near Mattoon, the result of a stroke of paralysis, from which she could not rally on account of her age, she being seventy eight years of age.

She was married to Samuel Carrick in 1855. He survives her, also one child, Alonzo, who with his family made his home with his parents.

Her request that Rev. W. R. Gibbs preach her funeral, was remembered and he was on hand to fulfill her request. The interment was at Mt. Zion and a large audience gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to Mrs. Carrick, and to hear Bro. Gibbs' sermon on this occasion.

NEW WATER WORKS FOR MARION.

Application for privilege to lay water mains on all the principal streets of Marion was made to the city council Tuesday night by atty J. A. Moore, representing J. W. Wilson of this city. The permit was granted, the council being a unit on the matter. We are informed Mr. Wilson will begin as soon as he can get materials on the ground.

Marion has stood in need of this for many years and is to be congratulated on getting it now without a big bonded debt which many of our less fortunate neighboring cities have.

Residences, stores, Hotels, Livery stables and all places where water is desired will be supplied.

Will Build New Baptist Church.

The Henderson Gleaner says: The Audubon Baptist church, of which the Rev. T. A. Conway is pastor, is preparing to build a handsome edifice on the site of the present church, corner of Helm and Letcher streets, and it is expected that a building committee will be appointed at a business meeting Thursday night. This church has grown until the present building is inadequate and, as the building is old, it was decided to build a large and up-to-date structure, which will be more in keeping with the present demands of the church and Sunday School.

BLOOD HOUND BOUGHT.

Tuesday night the council did several things for which it is to be commended, and not the least was appropriating money to purchase a half interest in a blood hound, which Jailer Will Wallace, agreed to take care of for the fees obtained from chases.

Private citizens guaranteed the remainder which it is contemplated interesting the fiscal Court in, at its next meeting, for the county. The idea is a good one for the city and county to own a blood hound and keep it on hand all the time. It will have a salutary effect on many petty thieves and stop much night prowling.

NEW STREET LIGHTS

Eight To Be Installed

The Marion Electric Light & Ice Company ordered by wire Wednesday a car load containing 100 poles to be used in installing the new street lights ordered by the council at its meeting Tuesday night at the following places, Carlisle st. near Mrs. Dixon., East Depot st. near T. C. Guess, East Belleville st. near W. T. Oakley, Morganfield st. near Luther Miller, Morganfield Road on I. C. R. R. near Jeff Asher, South Main st. near Ike Wilson, Old Princeton Road near R. H. Kemp and one near Colored Cumberland Church north of Marion.

The city now has 33 arc lights, the new ones are to be of the 100 candle power tungstens on brackets with hoods and reflectors.

New Church Edifice Launched.

Sunday morning at the Methodist church, Rev. Arthur Mathew departed from the usual Easter morning service, and laid before the congregation the plans of the "committee on building," as to the new house of worship which will be erected on the corner opposite the High School building and in the exact center of the city. The architect's plans are now in the hands of the contractors and bidders who are to put in bids before May 1st and the successful man is to have the foundation and basement in readiness for the corner stone of the superstructure to be laid on June 24th, which is Saturday before the fourth Sunday.

Crider Home Talent.

The Crider Home talent troupe filled its engagement Tuesday night at the opera House which was well filled. The young people did well and pleased their audience. All who attended hope to see them here again in the same good cause-New Church.

Pleasant Hill Church Divided.

Many, unfamiliar with the condition of the old primitive baptist church located 2 miles east of the city will be surprised to learn that a new church was organized Wednesday afternoon to be known as the "Second Baptist Church of Marion", which is composed of those members who have withdrawn from the above church, and have made application to enter the missionary Baptist Association. There has been a division imminent for some time and recent events brought the matter to a focus with the result that one faction composed of about 1/2 the membership as for their letters and withdrew from the mother church.

GOV. WILLSON ASKS FOR CELEBRATION

Of Three Hundredth Anniversary of King James' Bible.

Kentuckians will be asked by Gov. Willson to participate in the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the publication of the King James version of the Bible. He has addressed the following letter to those at the head of the movement for observance of the day in reply to a letter asking that the attention of the people of the State be called to the matter:

"Frankfort, Ky., March 25, 1911.—The Hon. John Fox and the Rev. William I. Haven, Corresponding Secretaries American Bible Society, Astor Place, N. Y.—Dear Sirs: I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of March 23d, advising me that the year 1911 is the three hundredth anniversary of the publication of the authorized or King James version of the English Bible and that this historical event is to be appropriately celebrated on both sides of the sea; that the American Bible Society has appointed a committee to suggest appropriate arrangements to all those who wish to unite in such a celebration and to include all who have an interest in the English Bible. You also advise me that April 23d has been suggested as a proper day for the churches to hold special services and the week following for other more general meetings; that a public meeting will be held in New York on the evening of April 25th, with addresses by distinguished men and a letter from the President, and similar meetings are to be held in many of the principal cities, and that you trust that it may seem desirable in view of the relation which the Bible holds to our State and national life for the Governors of the several States to bring this commemoration to the attention of the people in the Commonwealths. I shall take great pleasure in submitting the matter to the public. The people of Kentucky are second to none in their devotion to the English Bible and its teachings, and I am sure that they will take an earnest, heartfelt interest in the celebration of this three hundredth anniversary, and I publish this letter and invite our people to unite in the celebration by special service in all the churches on April 23d, and by public meetings in the cities and towns during the week following April 23d. Yours truly, AUGUSTUS E. WILLSON, Governor of Kentucky."

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CLAS, BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

THE COUNTRY MAIDEN.

(J. H. Traylor, Olney, Ky.)
Hail to the dear sweet Country maid
So busy all the day
Fitting about her rural home
Singing so blithe and gay.

Feeding the chicks at early morn
And cleaning up the house
Then tripping to the meadows green
To milk her father's cows.

With ruddy lips and cheeks so fair,
Kissed by the summer sun
With dark blue eyes and nut brown hair
And heart so full of fun.

She breathes the pure country air,
It makes her spirit light;
Her voice in sweet melodies ring
From early morn till night.

Oh, jolly little country maid
So happy, brave and gay
Ne'er let the city's glaring lights
E'er beckon you away.

Some day your father's rendezvous
May lose its charms for you;
The call from some great city's noose
Your loving spirits woo.

Come, live with me, sweet country maid
My lights are all aglow,
We'll have a time, don't be afraid,
No thought of grief or woe.

Ah! some heeded to the call
And left their happy home
And in the city's slums they fall—
Their lives are but a gloom.

When looking in their face you'll find
No marks of pleasure there,
But sad the story you can read
Of sorrow, shame and care.

The dregs of the cup are bitter,
The wine has lost its charm—
In search of happiness they turn
Back to the dear old farm.

But lo, the step has been taken,
Too late now to turn back,
No one cares for a sin-stained soul
Who left the narrow track.

Just think about your happy homes
Within the rural fields
Away from the smoke and turmoil
And rumbling of the wheels.

Contented little country maid,
So happy all the day,
May the angels ever guide you,
Safe in the narrow way.

Contented stay within your homes
Innocent as a dove,
Remember that the God of light
Is watching from above.

Sweet little maid with eyes so bright
And heart so pure and true,
May the glare of the city's light
Beckon in vain for you.

A lesson you should learn from this
With truths that ne'er will fade
That rural life's the happiest
Dear little country maid.

A HOPEFUL MESSAGE TO SCALP SUFFERERS AND MEN WHO'S HAIR IS THINNING.

Dandruff now—bald later. The same is true of scalp diseases. In fact baldness is a scalp disease. The trouble with the greasy salve and lotions, the so-called dandruff and scalp cures you have tried so far is that they don't do anything but temporarily relieve the itching and make the dandruff so it doesn't fall until its dried out again. Nothing can cure—really cure such troubles but a real scalp medicine that will kill the germs causing dandruff and scalp disease.

Learning from leading fellow druggists throughout America that had found a whirlwind cure for dandruff, eczema and all diseases of the skin and scalp the Haynes & Taylor drug store on proving to the laboratories compounding the treatment that it is the most prominent drug store in this city secured the agency for the remedy. This remedy is ZEMO, the clean, liquid preparation that kills the germ of disease and ZEMO SOAP to wash the scalp and scalp disease.

Sold and guaranteed by druggists everywhere and in Marion by Haynes & Taylor.

GROUP CONQUERED

Every Mother Should Read And Remember This.

In any home where a child has a tendency to croup, a bottle of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) should be kept constantly on hand.

A sudden attack of croup with difficult breathing and extreme distress is apt to come on at any time.

The course to be pursued is plain. Send for your doctor at once, and in the meantime drop 30 drops of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, and hold the child's head over it, cover with a towel or cloth, so that only the air filled with Hyomei vapor is breathed.

This method of treatment has saved many a child's life, and mothers of croupy children should see to it that HYOMEI is always on hand. Full instructions for prompt relief of croup is in each package.

A 50 cent bottle of HYOMEI is all you need in treating croup. This is known in all drug stores as Extra Bottle Hyomei Inhalant. Haynes & Taylor and druggists everywhere sell it. Breathe HYOMEI. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds, or money back.

To break up a cold in a few minutes try this: Pour a teaspoonful of Hyomei into a bowl of boiling water, put towel over head and bowl, and breathe the soothing, healing vapor that arises. It makes your head feel clear in two minutes. It is pleasant to use. Free trial sample of HYOMEI can be obtained by writing Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. A20 M4

KENTUCKY HAS URBAN GROWTH

Durand Hands Out More Census Figures.

CITIES SHOW LARGEST GAINS

Towns and Villages Fail to Keep Step in March of Progress, Many Being Almost Entirely Depopulated by Movement Toward Larger Centers of Population—Maysville Is Only Place of Importance That Slipped a Cog, Having Fewer People Within Her Borders Than in 1900.

Washington, D. C.—(Special.)—E. Dana Durand, chief director of the census department, has made public the figures showing the population of every city, town and village in Kentucky.

These figures show that the Blue Grass state has 58 cities, seven of which—Louisville, Lexington, Newport, Paducah, Owensboro, Henderson and Frankfort—have population in excess of 10,000. Eleven cities have population ranging from 5,000 to 10,000. They are, in order of size, as follows: Hopkinsville, Bowling Green, Ashland, Middlesboro, Winchester, Dayton, Bellevue, Maysville, Mayfield, Danville and Richmond. There are 300 towns and 31 villages, making a total of 389 incorporations.

Analysis of the figures shows that Kentucky, like her sister states of the middle west, has grown cliffed during the past decade, in other words the tide of migration has been from the rural districts and smaller towns toward the larger centers of population. In many of the villages the population is below the 1900 mark. In the cities of between 5,000 and 10,000 Maysville is the only one that failed to keep step in the march of progress.

The population returns will be used as the basis for changing ward boundaries in every incorporated municipality in Kentucky and may be used by boards of education to change the school districts. These figures also will be used in redistricting the state for congressional and senatorial purposes.

J. W. Wilson who is prospecting at Crittenden Springs for E. F. W. Kaiser, the Louisville capitalist who bought the mineral rights to that valuable property has uncovered a fine lead vein, at a point between the hotel and the Blue & Nunn nine acres. This will not be a surprise to those familiar with this property as it has been regarded for years as the center of the mineral field in this county, and has always been coveted by mining experts. The Mountain Lead, Zinc and Fluor Spar Co., paid large royalties for many years on a small tract on the "mountain" near this late find, and raised many hundred tons of lead and spar. Should this prove to be the real vein which all the mining men are hunting, it would make this property worth a half a million in minerals only, and as much more as a commercial and hotel enterprise.

One of the re-assuring evidences of sturdiness in this daintily refined age is the great number of persons who continue to spit with unabated vigor wherever they may be. Let the doctors proclaim what they will about the danger of this practice it is not to be denied that spitting ranks high among American arts, having a decorative value not to be lightly done away with in difference to mere precautions of hygiene and sanitation. There is no more lovely sight and sound than a spitter in action, and the delightful traces of him, remaining when he has departed, awaken in all men and women an instant admiration. Pleasure and proficiency in this art are so widespread that it seems advisable to organize for its further encouragement. Possibly a helpful beginning would be the formation of a national committee to draw up rules governing the artistic expulsion in public of miscellanies from the mouth, in the advancing of which worthy cause every American who has the best interests of his country at heart will gladly furnish for experiment whatever of his that is available, from the sidewalks of his city to the ceilings of his home.

FREEMAN—BARNEY.

A wedding of interest to Long Beach was solemnized in Los Angeles yesterday when Mr. G. H. Beach Barney of Long Beach claimed for his bride a daughter of the sunny Southland, Miss Muriel E. Freeman of Kentucky, as pretty and attractive as all the daughters of that state, famous for its beautiful women are said to be.

The wedding was a very quiet one, Miss Freeman, who had been visiting friends in Seattle, coming down by boat to Los Angeles, where she was met by the groom-to-be. Mr. Barney has had the management of the window decorating of the Cash store for the past three years, and is popular with a large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Barney will reside in Long Beach, where the groom is planning to build a pretty bungalow home for his bride.—Long Beach, Cal., Daily Telegram, March 24, 1911.

HIDDEN TREASURE

Concealed In Old Lounge He Was Taking To Dump.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Coins and crumpled bills to the amount of $2,495 greeted the eyes of Peter J. Pitts, a teamster, when his horse backed a wagon over a discarded lounge which had been thrown out into a East Boston street. Pitts was was loading the refuse, when a wheel of the wagon broke the lounge and disclosed the money. His shouts brought a crowd of men, to whom he gave a share of the treasure and a holiday was at once declared. No clue to the original owner of the money has been found.

GRAND JURY INDICTS
SON OF HENRY
THOMPSON

YOUTH CHARGED WITH MUR-DER, LOCKED IN DIXON JAIL

The grand jury in session at Dixon, Ky., last Friday found an indictment against Thomas Thompson, the 19 year old son, charging him with the wilful murder of his father, Henry Thompson, the Providence merchant, December 26th last. The commonwealth sprung a sensation by bringing before the grand jury an eye witness to the tragedy.

Thomas Thompson, it is said, left home at noon Christmas day and was not seen by his father until noon the next day. Learning that his son was near the cemetery the elder Thompson went in search of the youth.

At the cemetery the merchant found his son sitting on a log with Kearney Benjamin. The father reprimanded the boy, who retorted with violent words, whereupon Henry Thompson slapped him in the face.

Thomas Thompson arose to his feet and drew a revolver out of his hip pocket. He fired three times and his father fell dead. It is said that Benj. was in a position to see all that occurred. The fatal shots are said to have fired just at noon.

Thompson, it is said, pushed the body into a gulch and fled back to town. His father did not return to dinner, and the family was alarmed. Thomas Thompson borrowed a horse and buggy belonging to Thomas Jackson and told the family he was going to the home of a farmer named Kuykendall, but instead of going there he made a detour and far off his intended route and went to the cemetery, which is several hundred yards from the road. There he found the body in a place where, ordinarily, a person would have been compelled to search for a considerable time before locating it.

It required about 20 minutes for the boy to find his father's body. It is claimed by Thompson and his friends that the young man had made a causal trip to the cemetery while on his way to the country.

When he first arrived at home Thompson went to his late father's store and asked for $50, but got only 20. It is supposed that he wrnted the money to pay for a railroad ticket.

The theory of the commonwealth is that the boy could not have found the body so quickly unless he had known his father had been killed at that particular place. It is said Thomas Thompson found the body in twenty minutes after he left the store.

The prosecution will doubtless contend that the fact that the young man went to the remote spot immediately after discovered the body is stronger evidence than might be given by persons telling eye-witness stories of the crime.

A great many of them close down in the winter because they are unable to haul. The Mining interest in this county is getting on a more solid basis. There is very little mining done now except by large companies that can afford good machinery and have plenty of money to spend on improvements and they would certainly like to have some appreciation by the county in the way of good roads. With a view of starting a good work and setting an example before the people of the county, and showing mining capital that Crittenden welcomes it to her midst several of our public spirited citizens have started a good roads movement as is attested by the following:

L. E. Guess' Clerk Crittenden County Court, Marion, Ky. Crittenden County Fiscal Court, Regular Term April 5th 1911. Present and presiding, J. W. Blue Jr., Judge, with County att'y. and all Magistrates present except Esquire Chas. T. Riley.

On motion which carried, it is ordered that the County Judge, be and he is hereby authorized to have road properly graded for the building of a turn pike, from Marion, Ky. to where Salem and Sulphur Spring road fork, at or near Oak Grove School House, a distance of about two miles, and to pay for same. Said grading to be done, provided the citizens make up a sufficient fund to pay all expenses of building said turn pike on said road, exclusive of the expense of grading same as above mentioned. A copy attest. Signed L. E. Guess Clerk.

We the undersigned agree to pay the amount subscribed opposite our name, on demand, for the purpose of macadamizing the following described road. Unless as much as Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars is subscribed these subscriptions become null and void.

BIG OF BRAWN AND BRAIN.

Ollie James is big of brawn and big of brain. He is as big politically, too, as he is big physically. He is a living example for the fact that there are giants in these days as well as in "those days." From tip to tip he measures six feet six inches and he weighs 310 pounds. His brow extends from his eyes to the collar button on the back of his neck, for his head is as bald as a boiled egg, and he can scarce remember the time when hair grew upon his dome, which shines like a polished billiard ball. He has one pronounced love and one pronounced hatred. The one is for horses and the other is for Republicans, not personally, but politically. He will go miles to see and beat a horse race, and twice as far to meet and beat a Republican. In Kentucky especially these are qualities which make for popularity, but Ollie's popularity is not confined alone to his native state. His almost child-like simplicity, his unvarying good humor and genial character make friends for him everywhere. Personally, he knows no enemies, politically he knows no friends who do not subscribe to the tenets of true Democratic faith. In short, Ollie James is a worthy successor of the long line of distinguished Democrats who have come to Congress to serve their state and the nation.

He stands like some great, light house, stalwart, firm and loyal among the storms that sweep the politics of his country. Not alone has he the courage of his convictions, but he has the force of character to forge them into activity, and the intellect to guide them into operating causes. He is a fine type of the Democratic politician.—Frank B. Lord in Norman E. Mack's National Monthly for April.

Kentucky Boy Killed

In Fall Over Cliff.

Lamar, Colo. April 17.—Munroe High, age 21, son of a wealthy business man of Clinton, Ky., became lost in the wild country 40 miles southwest of here Tuesday night and plunged over a 200-ft precipice to his death.

High lived some time after his terrible fall, as he crawled under a ledge of rock for protection from the cold. His body was not found until Thursday, although his companion, L. W. Jackson, spent the greater part of the night looking for him; Jackson narrowly missed meeting death during the search in the dark for his friend at the same spot and in the same manner as High.

When a medicine must be given to young children it should be pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is made from loaf sugar, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it pleasant to take. It has no superior for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all dealers.

Not To Be Encouraged.

An Oklahoma editor was much interested in a scientific note he encountered in an eastern paper, to the effect that if the earth were flattened the sea would be two miles deep all over the world.

The editor reprinted the note with the following comment: "If any man is caught flattening the earth, shoot him on the spot. There's a whole lot of us in this state who can't swim."

Pussy Caught $875.

A cat chased a mouse under a footstool in the home of Henry Karg, at Fort Plains, N.Y. The cat squeezed part of the way under the stool, then thrusts his paw up into a hole in the bottom of the stool.

Presently down came the paw without the mouse, but with a $50 bill sticking to one of his claws. The members of the Karg family at once suspended housekeeping to explore the hole in the footstool.

In all $875 was found stowed away in the stool, which had been knocked around the house ever since the death of Grannie Karg, on Feb. 25, last. She was known to have been of a saving disposition, but she died so suddenly she got no chance to reveal where she had stored her hoard.

Part of the treasure trove is to be spent on a monument to Grannie, with a carved footstool on it.

Abbott is the man to whose custody the mail pouch was consigned at the Tampa terminals.

BALLOON LEAPS HURDLES AT ST. LOUIS

Takes Drop And Occupants Have Narrow Escape.

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—A balloon ascension here today by four members of the signal corps of the First Regiment, National Guards of Missouri, terminated in an accident when the bag sprang a leak and dropped like a plummet from an elevation of 4,000 feet. Lieutenants Andrew Drew and John P. Hart and Sergeants Bayard T. Bookman and G. A. Obermeyer, who comprised the aeronautic party, saved themselves from serious injury after colliding with the smoke-stack of a tobacco factory, less than three miles from the starting point, by dumping all their ballast overboard. Even then the crippled balloon bounded along the ground hurdling fences sheds and wire laden poles, finally coming to a stop in the railroad yards near Tower Grove Station.

Save for scratches, the aeronauts were unhurt.

Snake Swallows

Pair Of Rubber Shoes.

Clarksville, Tenn., April 18.—(Special.)—A marvelous discovery was made yesterday by Dr. Sechrest while disarticulating the body of the large boa constrictor which died of pneumonia on the Midway of the old soldier's carnival. The skin was removed at once and later Dr. Sechrest undertook the work of disarticulating the body for mounting. While engaged at this the intestines were opened and a pair of low gum shoes were found. The shoes were right and left and from the way worn evidently were mates. Stamped in the rubber on the bottom was the manufacturer's name, "Bolton Rubber Co., London, E. C." The shoes were apparently No. 8 in size and are only slightly used. The snake was caught less than a year ago on the Kruis river, near Sheitfontein in South Africa, and since then has been carefully guarded, the utmost care being exercised in feeding it. The shoes may have been worn by a soldier of the Boer War or by an English traveler. Those in charge of the snake are certain the shoes were not swallowed since the snake came to America.

The two shoes lay together, one slightly across the other, and had passed only a short distance into the intestines. There was an enlargement at the point where they lodged, a lesion or coating entirely covering them.

For All Skin Diseases

Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve is the best—It is a creamy snow white ointment pleasant to use and every box is guaranteed. Price 25c. At all dealers.

This action was taken after three men had been killed and several wounded in Douglas on United States territory. Douglas under constant fire three hours.

A Story On A Kentuckian.

In Kentucky is a quaint character named Ezekiel Hopkins, who once gained local fame by discovering a piece of broken railway line and warning an excursion train in time to save disaster. So it was decided to present Ezekiel with a gold watch, says the Argonaut. The head of the presentation committee, approaching Ezekiel with a grave bow, said:

"Mr. Hopkins, it is the desire of the good people of Kentucky that you shall, in recognition of your valor and merit, be presented with this watch, which they trust will ever remind you of their undying friendship." Without the least emotion Ezekiel ejected from his mouth a long stream of tobacco juice, took the watch from its handsome case, turned over and over in his wrinkled hand, and finally asked, "Whar's the chain?"

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1719 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains no toxic properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. I explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For other request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Cavanagh,

The Great Conservation Novel

CHAPTER XI.

LIZIE PLAYS A MAN'S PART—ALSO LEE. THE mob besieging Cavanagh in Halsey's saloon had not found its leader. It hesitated and blundered, but did not strike and eventually edged out of the door and disappeared. But the silence which followed its retreat was more alarming to the ranger than its presence. Some slier mischief was in these minds. He feared that they were about to cut the electric light wires and so plunge him into darkness, and to prepare for that emergency he called upon the bartender (Halsey having vanished) for a lamp or a lantern.

The fellow sullenly set about this task, and Ross, turning to Gregg, said, "If you've any influence with this mob you'd better use it to keep them out of mischief, for I'm on this job to the bitter end, and somebody's going to be hurt."

Gregg, who seemed quite detached from the action and rather delighted with it, replied: "I have no influence. They don't care a hang about me. They have it in for you, that's all."

Edwards remained silent, with his hat drawn low over his eyes. It was evident that he was anxious to avoid being seen and quite willing to keep out of the conflict; but, with no handcuffs and the back door of the saloon unguarded, Ross was aware that his guard must be incessant and alertly vigilant.

"Such a thing could not happen under the English flag," he said to himself, and at the moment his adopted country seemed a miserable make-shift. Only the thought of Redfield and the chief nerved him for the long vigil. "The chief will understand if it comes up to him," he said.

Lizie Wetherford came hurrying in, looking as though she had just risen from her bed. She was clothed in a long red robe, her grizzled hair was loose, her feet were bare, and she carried a huge old fashioned revolver in her hand. Her mouth was stern.

Stopping abruptly as she caught sight of Ross standing in the middle of the floor unharmed, she exclaimed: "There you are! Are you all right?"

"As a trivet," he replied.

She let her gun hand relax. "What was the shooting?"

"A little bluff on my part."

"Anybody hurt?"

"No."

She was much relieved. "I was afraid they'd got you. I came as quick as I could. I was abed. That fool doctor threw a chill into me, and I've been going to roost early according to orders. I didn't hear your gun, but Lee did, and she came to tell me. Don't let 'em get behind you. If I was any good I'd stay and help. What you going to do—hold your men here all night?"

"I don't see any other way. Halsey turned the place over to me, but—He looked about him suspiciously.

"Bring 'em into my place. Lee has had new locks put on our doors; they'll help some."

"I don't like to do that, Mrs. Wetherford," he replied, with greater respect

"THERE YOU ARE! ARE YOU ALL RIGHT?"

than he had ever shown her before.

"They may attack me there."

"All the better; I'll be on hand to help. But they're less likely to boil in on you through a locked door."

"But your daughter? It will alarm her."

"She'll be in the other house, and, besides, she'd feel easier if you are in my place. She's all wrought up by the attack on you."

Ross turned to his prisoners. "Follow Mrs. Wetherford and—eyes front!"

"You needn't worry about me," said Joe. "I won't run."

"I don't intend to give you a chance," replied Ross.

Edwards seemed to have lost in both courage and physical stature. He slouched along with shuffling step, his head bent and his face pale. Ross was now profoundly sorry for him, so utterly craven and broken was his look.

As Ross brought his two prisoners to the Wetherford House Lee was waiting on the porch of the hotel, tense with excitement, straining her ears and eyes to see what was taking place.

The night had started with a small sickle of moon, but this had dropped below the range, leaving the street dark save where the lights from the windows of the all night eating houses and saloons lay out upon the walk, and while she stood peering out the sound of rancorous howling and shrill whooping came to her ears with such suggestion of ferocity that she shivered.

Forest

A few of the hotel guests had gone to bed, but the women were up, excited and nervous, starting at every fresh outburst of whooping, knowing that their sons or husbands were out in the street "to see the fun" and that they might meet trouble.

At last Lee discerned her mother returning from Halsey's, followed by three men. Withdrawing from the little porch whereon she had been standing, she re-entered the house to meet her mother in the hall. "Where is Mr. Cavanagh?" she asked.

"Out in the dining room. You see, Mike Halsey is no kind of use. He vamoosed and left Ross down there alone with his two prisoners and the lights likely to be turned out on him, so I offered the caddy as a caliboose. They are sure in for a long and tedious night."

Lee was alarmed at her mother's appearance. "You must go to bed. You look ghastly."

"I reckon I'd better lay down for a little while, but I can't sleep. Ross may need me. There isn't a man to help him but me, and that loafer Ballard is full of gall. He's got it in for Ross and will make trouble if he can."

"What can we do?"

"Shoot!" replied Lizie, with dry brevity. "I wouldn't mind a chance to plug some of the sweet citizens of this town. I owe them one or two."

With this sentence in her ears Lee Virginia went to her bed, but not to slumber. Her utter inability either to control her mother's action or to influence that of the mob added to her uneasiness.

The singing, shouting, tramping of the crowd went on, and once a group of men halted just outside her window, and she heard Neil Ballard noisily, drunkenly arguing as to the most effective method of taking the prisoners.

"Come on, boys!" said Ballard, his voice filled with reckless determination. "Let's run him."

As they passed the girl sprang up and went to her mother's room to warn her of the threatened attack.

Lizie was already awake and calmly leading a second revolver by the light of the electric bulb. A jarring blow was heard. "Hear that? They're breaking in!" said Lizie. She started to leave the room.

Lee stopped her. "Where are you going?"

"To help Ross. Here!" She thrust the handle of a smaller weapon into Lee's hand. "Ed Wetherford's girl ought to be able to take care of herself. Come on!"

With a most unheroic horror numbing her limbs, Lee followed her mother through the hall. The sound of shouts and the tramping of feet could be heard, and she came out into the restaurant just in time to photograph upon her brain a scene whose significance was at once apparent. On a chair between his two prisoners and confronting Ballard at the head of a crowd of frenzied villains stood the ranger, a gleaming weapon in his hand, a look of resolution on his face.

What he had said or what he intended to do she did not learn, for her mother rushed at the invaders with the mad bravery of a she bear. "Get out of here!" she snarled, thrusting her revolver into the very mouth of the leader.

They all fell back in astonishment and fear.

Ross leaped to her side. "Leave them to me!" he said. "I'll clear the room."

"Not on your life! This is my house. I have the right to smash the fools." And she beat them over the heads with her pistol barrel.

Recognizing that she was minded to kill, they retreated over the threshold, and Ross, drawing the door close behind them, turned to find Lee Virginia confronting Edwards, who had attempted to escape into the kitchen. The girl's face was white, but the eye of her revolver stared straight and true into her prisoner's face.

With a bound Ross seized him and flung him against the wall. "Get back there!" he shouted. "You must take your medicine with your boss."

The old fellow hurriedly replaced his ragged hat and, folding his arms, sank back into his chair with bowed head, while Lizie turned upon Joe Gregg.

"What did you go into this kind of deal for? You knew what the game laws was, didn't you? Your old dad is all for state regulation, and here you are breaking a state law. Why don't you stand up for the code like a sport?"

Joe, who had been boasting of the smiles he had drawn from Lee, did not relish this tongue lashing from her mother; but, assuming a careless air, he said: "I'm all out of smokes; get me a box, that's a good old soul."

Lizie regarded him with the expression of one nonplused. "You impudent little cub!" she exclaimed. "What you need is a booting!"

The ranger addressed himself to Lee. "I want to thank you for a very opportune intervention. I didn't know you could handle a gun so neatly."

She flushed with pleasure. "Oh, yes, I can shoot. My father taught me when I was only six years old."

As she spoke Ross caught the man Edwards studying them with furtive glance, but upon being observed he resumed his crouching attitude, which concealed his face beneath the rim of his weather worn hat. It was evident that he was afraid of being recognized.

He had the slinking air of the convict, and his form, so despairing in its lax lines, appealed to Lee with even greater poignancy than his face. "I'm sorry," she said to him, "but it was my duty to help Mr. Cavanagh."

He glanced up with a quick sidewise slant. "That's all right, miss. I should have had sense enough to keep out of this business." He spoke with difficulty, and his voice was hoarse with emotion.

Lizie turned to Lee. "The doc said 'no liquor,' but I guess here's where I draw one. I feel faint."

Ross hurried to her side, while young Gregg tendered a handsome flask. "Here's something."

Lizie put it away. "Not from you. Just reach under my desk, Ross; you'll find some brandy there. That's it," she called as he produced a bottle. Clutching it eagerly, she added, "They say it's poison, but it's my meat to-night." Little remained of the woman in Lizie, and the old sheep herder eyed her with furtive curiosity.

"I was afraid you'd shoot," Lizie explained to Ross, "and I didn't want you to mussy up your hands on the dirty loafers. I had the right to kill. They were trespassers, and I'd 'a' done it too."

"I don't think they intended to actually assault me," he said, "but it's a bit discouraging to find the town so indifferent over both the breaking of the laws and the doings of a drunken mob. I'm afraid the most of them are a long way from law abiding people yet."

Joe, who did not like the position in which he stood as respecting Lee, here made an offer of aid. "I don't suppose my word is any good now, but if you'll let me do it I'll go out and round up Judge Higley. I think I know where he is."

To this Lizie objected. "You can't do that, Ross; you better hold the fort here till morning."

Lee was rather sorry, too, for young Gregg, who bore his buffeting with the imperturbable face of the heroes of his class. He had gone into this enterprise with much the same spirit in which he had stolen gates and misplaced signs during his brief college career, and he was now disposed (in the presence of a pretty girl) to carry it out with undiminished impudence.

"It only means a fine, anyway," he assured himself.

Cavanagh did not trust Gregg, either, and as this was the first time he had been called upon to arrest men for killing game out of season he could not afford to fall of any precaution. Tired and sleepy as he was he must remain on guard. "But you and your daughter must go to bed at once," he urged.

Lizie, under the spur of her dram, talked on with bitter boldness, berating the town and its people. Gregg listened to her with expressionless visage, his eyes dreamily fixed on Lee's face, but his companion, the old herder, seemed to palpitate with shame and fear. And Ross had the feeling at the moment that in this ragged, unkempt old hobo was the skeleton of one of the old time heroes. He was wasted with drink and worn by wind and rain, but he was very far from being commonplace.

Man Who Doesn't Take

Home Paper Not Wanted.

The Frankfort News-Journal says: A traveling solicitor of the Courier-Journal was in Frankfort the other day, and stated that he had instructed the men under him to book no subscriptions with a man who does not take the paper published in his home town. He says a man who does not subscribe for his county or home paper is not the kind of a man wanted on the books of a city paper, for there must be something wrong with him. There is wisdom in this.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Marion Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Marion readers.

G. B. Johnson, 413 Gum St., Marion, Ky., says: For five years I suffered from kidney complaint, brought on by hard work. Whenever I caught cold, it settled on my kidneys and at such times my suffering was aggravated. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and I was often obliged to arise during the night. There was a dull pain in the small of my back and when I arose in the morning, I felt lame and stiff. I tired easily, was nervous and also had dizzy spells. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my attention, I procured at Haynes & Taylor's drug store and after I finished the contents, I was cured. It gives me pleasure to state, that time has proven the cure to be a permanent one. You are at liberty to publish this statement for the benefit of other kidney sufferers.

We have been very busy for the past few weeks and therefore have not had time to write the items of our vicinity, however, as the heavy rains of recent date have got the ground in such a condition as to prevent us from doing anything in the fields, so we have a little leisure time and will endeavor to give the news of this section this week.

The farmers are delayed in turning the soil owing to the excessive rains of late, but the season has helped the farmers to get their remnant of tobacco to market.

Tobacco Tidings.

BY R. F. WHEELER.

Beginning with next issue of this paper we will publish a series of articles on the tobacco situation as it affects the district in general, and this county in particular.

This is being done by authority of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, and in these articles we hope to be able to present to you in a plain, straightforward way the history, the plan, and the purpose of this organization, and its claim for the support of the tobacco growers of Crittenden county.

In this discussion we expect to make no statement that we cannot prove by facts and figures, and while we aim to state our own position and opinions candidly and fearlessly, we shall at all times respect the opinions of others whether they be for the Association; Farmers' Union or wish to sell their tobacco independently of either organization.

We said at the beginning of the agitation of this question that the growers of this county ought to all join it or all stay out we are still of the same opinion. We cannot remain half Association and half independent and succeed. It causes strife and contentions that is neither to our credit nor of any profit to us. It is to try to change these conditions that we ask your patient consideration of our side of the case.

Since this Association has been here, it has paid out to the farmers of this county more than a quarter of a million dollars for tobacco, has given employment to many hands in its factories. It has paid the highest average price, $8.00 for the 1907 crop, that has been paid to the farmers of this county since the war. It not only has the confidence of the growers at home but also that of our customers, the tobacco buyers abroad. It certainly merits all that we ask,—a patient hearing without prejudice. If after we talk this matter over it occurs that you have the best plan we want to join you. If on the other hand we can show you that our plan is best we shall expect you, as honest men, to co-operate with us.

JESSE F. BRUCE BUYS HARNESS BUSINESS.

L. Berland's harness and saddlery shop, the oldest mercantile business in this city but one under the same ownership and management, has been bought by J. F. Bruce, who recently came here from Alva, Okla. The deal was a straight sale proposition and amounted to the neighborhood of $4,000.

Mr. Berland started in business here 13 years ago last fall and has always enjoyed a fine trade. His dealings extended all over the county. Stockmen and ranchers came from as far as 60 miles to trade with Mr. Berland because of his known uprightness and probity and because they liked him. He has been very successful and retires with a good share of this world's goods. He says he has no intention of leaving Enterprise. He still owns the two story brick building in which the shop is located, and a beautiful home on West Main street.

Mr. Bruce is a man who made a big success in farming in Woods county, Okla. One of his sons, J. E. Bruce, came to this county a year or so ago and bought a place on Alder Slope. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bruce, and brothers Richard and Frank, came two weeks ago and have since been looking over the country, and they liked it so well this deal is the result. Mr. Bruce is a man whom to meet is a pleasure. He will conduct the business along the same lines of fair and square dealing, with prices as low as possible.

The deal was made through Payne & Shedd and the Enterprise State Bank.—Enterprise, Oregon, News-Record.

It won't do for a married man to say to his wife, "Never mind." She is apt to take him at his word.

The pugilist who struck a preacher claims to be an expounder of the gospel.

His name was William—but she called him Bill. The old man did not like him as a suitor to his daughter, and kicked him out. The next day they met he complained. The girl apologized and said that her pa was so accustomed to foot all her bills that he did it as a matter of course.

Hays Medicine Co.: I was a sufferer with ECZEMA for twenty years. Several months ago I tried Hays Specific and after about three weeks use, my legs shedded off as white and free from sores as they were before I had the eczema. I have had no pain or annoyance since; in fact an well.

Mr. Park, now vice-president of the Illinois Central and formerly for several years an officer of the Union Pacific, makes the positive statement, as refreshing as it is unusual, that the Union Pacific and other Harriman lines have abolished avoidable train accidents! He has adopted certain Union Pacific methods on the Illinois Central, and the statement comes out in connection with the announcement that the I. C. and its controlled lines during the past calendar year carried 39,728,211 passengers, of whom not one was killed in a train accident; and this includes passengers carried on freight trains. The passenger mileage was about 800 millions; passenger train mileage 15 millions, and freight train miles 22 1/3 millions. The number of train accidents of all kinds was equal to 7.43 accidents per million locomotive miles, which he says is nearly 50 per cent. less than the number occurring in the preceding year. Mr. Park says that the improvement over former records is due largely or mainly to surprise checking. The division officers now report very few misunderstandings or violations of rules, showing that the natural prejudices of the men against surprise checking have been largely overcome in the short space of time since Mr. Park introduced the methods which he had found so successful on the Union Pacific. His reference to the Union Pacific's efficiency tests, which have now been conducted for several years, is to the effect that they "have practically eliminated avoidable accidents." He includes the company's policy of giving publicity to the causes of train accidents as an important factor in improving the service. Presumptive evidence of the correctness of this declaration, as regards the Harriman lines, is found in the report of those lines, recently published, showing complete freedom from fatal train accidents to passengers during the past year. Both on these lines and on the Illinois Central the rules for surprise checking are systematic and rigid. One of them requires that when a passenger train is stopped by a flag or torpedo, or by an unusual signal, the conductor shall confer with the engineer before proceeding. For the last month (February, 1911), the surprise checking on the I. C. resulted in the following percentages of efficiency: Chicago division, 77; St. Louis division, 83; Springfield division, 78; Peoria division, 83; Freeport division, 90; Dubuque division, 67, and Cherokee-Omaha division 100. Mr. Park says that on the Harriman lines the efficiency of employees has been brought to that degree of perfection that on block-signalized lines a flagman is not required to go back if the signal can be seen at "stop" one-half mile in the rear. No other road in this country has such a rule, and very few officers would be willing to put their efficiency to the test of an abolishment of flagging to the extent that the Harriman lines have done. As Mr. Park well says, this degree of perfection could have been attained only after both officers and employees had undergone a very systematic and exhaustive drill in efficiency.—Railway Age Gazette, March 24, 1911.

A SONG OF AGE.

When I was young I hoped to be a man of value to the State. I prayed the fates to grant to me The laurels of the good and great— When I was young. When I was young I dreamed of hours In that then seeming distant time When I should wield God-given Rejoicing in my manhood's prime— When I was young. When I was young ambition stirred My pulses, filled my boyish heart: In all my actions ever spurred Me on to my allotted part— When I was young. But now when age creeps on apace And won are all those cherished bays, A victor in life's frenzied race, I'd give them all for those dear days When I was young! —Blakeney Gray.
